

FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS - COMPLIANCE

Community financial institutions know best how to serve consumers and offer products that will elevate their communities. Following the Great Recession you continue to respond to consumer demands despite increasing regulation and higher capital requirements.

As the Dodd-Frank rules were being drafted, HoganTaylor representatives visited Washington, DC with community financial institutions and participated in discussions with the heads of the regulatory agencies, including the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau. Because of your efforts, rules for community banks, while challenging, are less burdensome than those originally drafted or those that apply to the larger banks.
